Nose Dive In Stocks Stopped

Prices Plunge To New Low On Thursday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks pulled out of a six-day nose dive today to move higher in active trading.

At least a half dozen blue chips and nearly a dozen electronics posting gains of a point or more. American Telephone, American Tobacco, Procter & Gamble, and Chrysler spearheaded the advance.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices plunged to a 1962 low in heavy trading Thursday that sent the Dow-Jones industrial average to a four-year low and wiped out $6.2 billion in paper values.

Losses showed in all of the 15 most active stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange, although they were mostly fractional.

Volume was 6,240,000 shares, largest since 10,710,000 shares were traded on May 31. Blue-chips, electronics and office equipment issues continued to slide.

Exchange Issues Report

The drop came as President Kennedy told a news conference in Washington that negotiations aimed at preventing a strike that would cripple three major airlines collapsed after President Kennedy's appeal was rejected. (UPI Telephoto)

The stock exchange issued a preliminary report on its special study of the three days of heavy trading May 28, 29, and 31, when the market broke and then rallied.

Contrary to some reports current at the time, the study showed little unusual or one-sided activity in foreign accounts; that institutions generally were buying on all three days; that selling on May 28, when the market plummeted, was characterized largely by activity in long-term investment accounts held by the public.

The market Thursday was not distinguished by any radical movements such as those which had shown last May 28.

There were 965 losses, 186 advances, and 166 stocks remained unchanged, although 276 hit new 1962 lows, compared with 174 the previous day.

Kennedy Feels Parties Should Forget Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy is trying to arrange a trial separation of politics from the domestic economy, at least until the 1964 national election.

NEWS in BRIEF

DALLAS (UPI) — Henry Ford II said Thursday that Ford assembly plants all over the nation are going to shutdown next Monday for at least a week because of a strike at the company's Cleveland, Ohio stamping plant.

The strike in Ohio has caused a parts shortage, and there was a possibility the layoff would last longer than one week.

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Commandos of the Secret Army Organization bombed Algiers' biggest hospital today.

Because the raiders gave advance warning of the bombing no one was injured, but hundreds of patients were removed from the building, some of them in cattle trucks.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy believes the Laos government has moved Soviet-American relations to a new "plateau" but he said it is still a long way to the summit.

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police disclosed today that a Communist border guard shot and killed a 12-year-old East Berlin boy near the wall last Sunday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., charged today that Commercial Solvents Corp. had Billie Sol Estes "wired to the gills" in 1958 when it loaned him money to go into the grain storage business.

Bass leveled the accusation after the president of the firm, Maynard C. Wheeler, angrily denied previous charges by the congressman that the company, Estes and the Agriculture Department conspired to guarantee Estes government grain storage contracts.

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Billie Sol Estes advised U.S. District Court today that he owes $35,387,935.87.

At the same time, he claimed assets totaling $20,793,155.95, leaving liabilities of $15,594,779.92 which the sale of his assets would not meet, if they were sold at what he estimated their value.

He feels that partisan attitudes of Republican businessmen are clouding current economic issues. He does not believe the GOP should approach the administration farm bill as a party matter.

"I think that we have a right," he told a news conference Thursday, "to expect that on these matters of great national import, at least we will receive some help from across the aisle."

"Across the aisle" is a congressional term denoting the fact that Democrats sit on one side, Republicans on the other in the House and Senate. The President's application was broader than Congress, however. Businessmen, for example.

The President told reporters "most businessmen are Republicans" and "undoubtedly would be happier if there were a Republican in the White House today. But, he added, "The economic problems would still be there."

Argue Politics In 1964
"The presidential race isn't until 1964 and that time, it would seem to me, (would) be the appropriate time to argue politics," he said. "Right now it would seem to me that we should be concerned ourselves with the real problems of our country."

Other highlights of the conference:
—He threw his weight against a strike threatened by the flight engineers against three major airlines, criticizing the union for having "failed to cooperate" with extensive mediation efforts. He urged the engineers to reconsider their rejection of arbitration.

—He dismissed a claim by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that the United States through its nuclear testing was preparing a "surprise attack" against Russia. The President said international tension could be reduced only by "goodwill on both sides."

—This government is studying India's apparent intention to buy advanced jet fighters from Russia.

—He deplored Senate action to bar most U.S. foreign aid to Yugoslavia and Poland, saying this was a tremendous propaganda gift to the Kremlin.

—He feared U.S. withdrawal from such sections of Southeast Asia as Viet Nam and Thailand might result in the collapse of the entire area. Kennedy acknowledged the difficulty of stabilizing conditions in Southeast Asia, but said he thought the announced plan to form a national government in Laos was a step toward improvement.

No Hike Seen in School Tax Rate

Palm Springs area property owners may expect school district tax rates held at the 1961-62 level or slightly below, if Palm Springs Unified School District and College of the Desert preliminary budgets last night are maintained.

For the Palm Springs school district, the revised $2,736,747 revised preliminary budget is expected to hold the total tax rate—including the legal limit $1.65 operating rate—at $2.25.

For the College of the Desert, slated to open its doors in September to an estimated 450 or 500 students, the $1,472,013 preliminary operating budget adopted in a Palm Springs board meeting last night is expected to result in a 35-cent total tax rate.

The College of the Desert board, headed by Don H. Mitchell, Indio, tentatively adopted the operating budget and a $282,000 bond and interest budget for the coming fiscal year. A $230,773,347 assessed valuation is expected in the giant college district for 1962-63.

Dr. Dwight E. Twist, superintendent of the Palm Springs Unified School District, submitted the revised tentative operating budget.

Arrives in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies arrived here Thursday from London for a six-day visit.

Weather Slaps Palm Desert Player Follies

PALM DESERT — Summer was too short here for the Palm Desert Players to continue their annual follies last night, and the production has been postponed until next weekend.

Wind and cold brought a halt to the presentation at the outdoor theatre site, and producers announced that all tickets will be good on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the following weekend.

Board Approves Building of School Center

The Kreitz and Wilson Co. low bid of $265,400 for construction of a 12,000 square foot administrative center for the Palm Springs Unified School District was approved by the board last night.

The bid, low of six submitted on the revised specifications bid call, brought lower prices from several subcontractors than the original bids. Berton L. Lamb, board president, reported.

The bid was $9,000 under the estimate of Architect Stewart Williams, and will require only $17,200 in additional funds for the project, Jack L. Miles, assistant superintendent, explained.

The board had originally earmarked $250,000 for the construction. The project was rebid after the low bid on the first specifications topped $307,000 for the entire project.

Contracts Let for New Coachella Building

Construction Contracts totaling $763,000 have been awarded by the Coachella Valley Savings and Loan Association for the erection of a new main office at 499 South Palm Canyon Drive, Palm Springs.

William H. Smith, Coachella President, announced that Arthur Coffey, Palm Springs builder, was selected to coordinate all construction work, contracts for which were let on a segregated basis to the low bidder in each craft involved.

This construction figure, with cost of the land, furnishings and fixtures added, represents an investment of about $1,250,000, Smith said.

The building, designed by the architectural firm of Williams & Williams, A.L.A., of Palm Springs, will contain more than 25,000 square feet of floor space distributed between two floors and a full basement and served by a double-deck parking structure on the rear half of the property.

Spa County Building in Budget for $300,000

RIVERSIDE — Three major desert area projects — including a $300,000 county building for Palm Springs — have been assured by the County Board of Supervisors in preliminary budget studies.

Approved in the studies which saw a slash of the proposed county budget from $43.4 million to approximately $41 million were the Palm Springs county building, Palm City fire station, and outpatient clinic at Indio.

Robert T. Andersen, county administrator, told The Desert Sun the supervisors voted unanimously to proceed "immediately" in the coming fiscal year with the planned 10,000 square foot building for Palm Springs to be located in the city center at Tahquitz-McCallum Way and El Cielo Road.

The Stewart Williams - designed facility, to be located on leased land in the Palm Springs civic center at Tahquitz-McCallum Way and El Cielo Road, will house at least five county offices. Slated for the building at the Palm (See COUNTY, Page 2)

SAT., JUNE 16

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is fine for improving your surroundings by adding more modern and up-to-date conditions so that work, energy, time and expense are lessened. The evening is no time to get nervously wrought up or you can annoy, or have separations from others. P. M. stick to completing what you put in motion earlier in the day.

ARIES (Birthdays from Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Make it a point to get out with dynamic friends to new interests or places and gain much from the venture. However, be very careful in motion, especially driving.

TAURUS (Birthdays from Apr. 20 to May 20)—It would be well to talk over with partners what you can do to help make mutual operations more successful. Don't argue with one you admire in P. M.

GEMINI (Birthdays from May 21 to June 21)—By listening to advice of loyal associates, you will be able to make excellent contacts and learn of new systems as well. Compromise where necessary in P. M.

MOON CHILDREN (Birthdays from June 22 to July 21)—See that you work very efficiently so that you make a fine impression on highups upon whom you are dependent. Be honest, conscientious, alert.

LEO (Birthdays from July 22 to Aug. 21)—Take time to perfect hobbies with associates and show you are highly talented in happy outlets as well. Come to real understanding in P. M., and increase happiness.

VIRGO (Birthdays from Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Day hours are best for improving home conditions, increasing harmony with family. Take health treatments in P. M. Be kind to those who have helped you.

LIBRA (Birthdays from Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Study your paper well for ideas, then step out to visit persons you admire and from whom you can learn. Discuss new ideas with friends this evening.

SCORPIO (Birthdays from Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Financial affairs can be handled wisely today, but only if you first discuss arrangements with kin. Set up a budget that fits your needs in P. M.

SAGITTARIUS (Birthdays from Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—The direct approach is best now if you want to get the results you desire and make a good impression on others. Team up with associate in P. M. Study paper, too.

CAPRICORN (Birthdays from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Some cherished hope can be realized now by concentrated activity toward it, particularly if you get the assistance of some trusted friend as well.

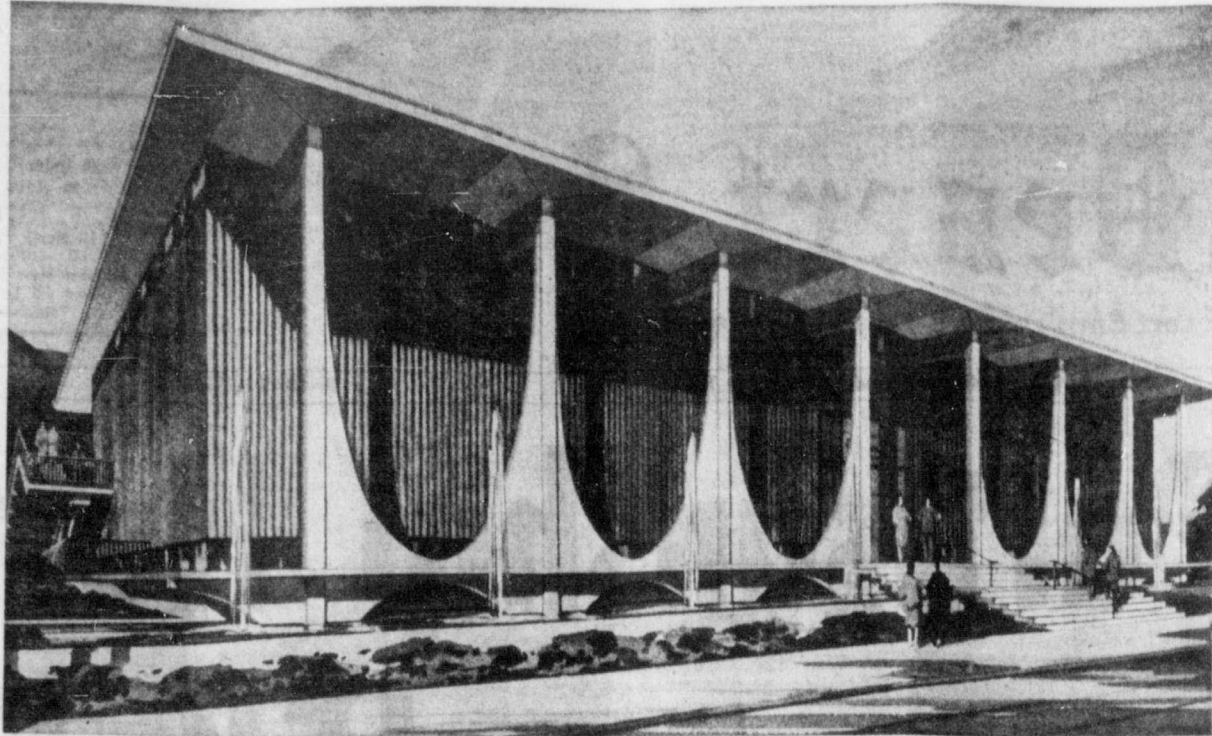

AQUARIUS (Birthdays from Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—If you make it a point to join with dynamic friends, you now can realize certain cherished desires. Step out socially in P. M., and be at your best.

PISCES (Birthdays from Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—The ideal day to get together secretly with an influential person so that you get the particular favor you desire. Be very courteous with kin and higher-ups in P. M.

If Your Child Is Born Today
It is important that you give the finest education and spiritual training possible, since the mental brilliance here is truly remarkable. The success can be very great, provided you also see to it that foreign languages are learned and courses in psychology given so that investigative ability can be increased. A connection with the government would be ideal here.

Between Palm Canyon and Indian.

A BEAUTIFUL ADDITION to Palm Canyon Drive is the new Coachella Valley Savings and Loan Association Building, which is scheduled for an early construction start at the northwest corner of Palm Canyon and Ramon Road. The unique design by architect Stewart Williams includes a number of engineering innovations — such as the light, sweeping parabolic columns which are to be cantilevered in prestressed concrete to bear the roof weight and resist earthquake shock. The structure is scheduled for completion early next year. Customer service to all three floors will be by automatic elevator.

Section 14 Zone Plans In 2 Weeks

Recommendations on Section 14 zoning may be presented to the Palm Springs City Council in approximately two weeks. Vice Mayor Ted McKinney reported today. McKinney said that the Thursday meeting between representatives of the city council, planning commission and the Agua Caliente Indian tribe made "smooth" progress. The joint study group, including Mrs. Eileen Miguel, chairman of the Indian tribal council, and Ray Simpson, tribal attorney, emphasized discussions of commercial zoning during the meeting.

The Indians have stipulated a quiet zone within 300 feet of the Indian cemetery on Tahquitz-McCallum Way. Other areas of agreement include maintenance of zoning on Indian Avenue which will approximate current commercial zoning.

Other subjects to be threshed out in the study meetings include standards for the restrictive C-1AA commercial zoning on Tahquitz-McCallum Way, and garden apartment and possible high-rise hotel zoning. The committee convenes again next Thursday.

Furnishings of $900 Stolen

Some $900 in household furnishings were stolen sometime yesterday at the home of Hubert A. Huebner 1855 Aquanetta.

The theft was discovered by Mike Margucci who was there repairing the air conditioning unit. The owner, Huebner, is in Los Angeles the police reported.

Articles missing from the house included a 24-inch TV set; Hi-Fi, AM and FM set; two china lamps; two sets of drapes; and one electric fan.

ing will be from Belardo Road. Constructed of reinforced concrete, the building contains many advanced engineering ideas, most notable of which are the columns along the main facade which are reinforced with parabolic shaped fins to resist earthquake. These columns carry the entire roof which is spanned by 100 foot precast concrete "T" beams reinforced with high tension bridge steel tendons.

Enclosed within this concrete structural system is the light weight steel framed office core of the building, sheathed in pale amber anodized ribbed aluminum. Glare reducing glass is used to close the space between metal and concrete, giving each office a glimpse of outdoors, but shielding it from the direct rays of the sun.

The interior of the building will feature floors of terrazzo with all private offices carpeted. Walls will be covered with blonde Korina wood veneer. An abstract sculptured metal panel by O. E. L. Graves, Palm Springs artist, will be the focal point in the main lobby.

The first floor will be devoted to public lobby, loan interviews and savings department facilities. The second floor will house the administrative offices, escrow, loan processing, appraisal and accounting departments. Vaults, staff facilities and storage for records and supplies will be housed in the basement.

A large community meeting room with kitchen capable of serving 150 persons, will occupy a prominent portion of the lower floor, and it is expected that many local organizations will take advantage of this room for meetings, lectures and other functions.

In keeping with recent efforts to beautify Palm Canyon Drive, a long reflecting pool with eight fountain jets will run the entire length of the building facade on Palm Canyon Drive. The entire property will be landscaped.

The new building is expected to be completed early in 1963 at which time the Association will sell or lease its present office to new tenants.

County Building In Budget

Spings' section of Desert Municipal Court, marshal's office, and branch offices of the district attorney, assessor, and health departments. County offices are now in rented space at 400 N. Belardo Road.

The city and county had discussed the proposed 99-year lease for the county building site for several years. This spring, the county initiated inquiries about land gift for the building, but the city council voted the lease.

The Palm City fire station is expected to be built at cost of $14,000, plus $19,000 for equipment. Two full-time men would be assigned to the station.

Figures on the Indio out-patient extension of the county hospital will be presented to the supervisors next Monday by the county hospital director. The hospital budget will be increased for the desert treatment center, permitting contract services by Indio Doctors, Andersen said.

Realtors to Rush Spa Convention

A delegation of at least 25 Palm Springs Realtors will invade San Diego next Friday, ostensibly to attend a convention, but actually for the avowed purpose of getting another convention in their home town next March.

Plans for the convention campaign, which could bring 1,500 or more visitors to town for a four-day stay, were disclosed by Isabelle (Mrs. Don) Cameron, Palm Springs Board of Realtors president, and Herb Lakey, convention chairman.

Members of the local board will go to the San Diego meeting wearing buttons urging that the next state meeting of the California Real Estate Association's directors be held in Palm Springs.

And, according to Lakey, the conventioners realtors plan to pin the buttons on every delegate they can find at San Diego who is amenable to the idea — and seek their support when the matter comes up for a vote.

HOTAPA WANTS

Less Hotel Rate Advertising

The Palm Springs Hotel and Apartment Association wants to advertise the summer attractions of this resort city, but seeks less advertising of hotel rates.

The HOTAPA board of directors, acting in the last scheduled meeting until September, voted to ask the city council to tighten the city's anti-rate sign law. The law, which provides for relaxation of the prohibition from June 1 to Sept. 30, has led to a rash of signs which the hotelmen fear will lead to price cuts below "reasonable" rates, Dr. Sherman Dickinson, president, reported.

The HOTAPA heads have conferred during the past year on a state law which provides rate signs must display all rates or none. Few hotels displaying rates conform to the requirement, past president Sig Ehrens reported in a study last fall. Despite past studies, the hotel group — with 176 hotel members — has not formulated any ordinance proposal for the council. A draft may result from conferences with legal counsel, Dr. Dickinson said.

The HOTAPA board has outlined a summer advertising program which will emphasize the vacation pleasures of this pool-conscious city, and minimize the summer heat factor. Summer resort business in Phoenix, Ariz., now equals the winter volume indicating desert potential, the hotelmen observed.

Other board action included streamlining of the HOTAPA referral service to provide more effective customer placement with members, and approval of a $25 donation to the Junior Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July fire-works fund.

VOICE OF THE DESERT EMPIRE

Nikita in Tribute to Van Cliburn

MOSCOW (UPI) — Texas pianist Van Cliburn drew a rave review in Pravda today capping a personal tribute from Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet leader showed up unexpectedly Thursday night at Cliburn's second sellout concert and toasted him at a dinner party after it was all over.

Cliburn, 27, said after the two-hour party he had no advance notice that Khrushchev would show up.

"We talked about many things, but really it was a family affair," he said.

Pravda, the Communist party paper, said today that Cliburn had become a "bigger, maturer, more balanced" artist since his last appearance in Moscow in 1960.

"Van Cliburn plays as if addressing himself directly to the audience," Pravda said. "The resultant impression is that he speaks to you, telling with emotion something that is very important and moving."

"Absorbed completely in music, he seeks to convey his absorption to the audience, to bring them the immortal beauty of the feelings, thoughts and emotions recorded in the works of great masters of the past and present."

Cliburn's first concert Wednesday was, in general, received by all as an outstanding event in our musical life.

On his previous trips here, Cliburn occasionally has met Khrushchev and apparently is on the best of terms with the Soviet premier.

Thursday night's "family affair" included Khrushchev, First Deputy Premiers Anastas Mikoyan and Alexei Kosygin, Soviet Culture Minister Ekaterina Furtseva and Cliburn's mother.

Collis H. Steers Athletic Trophy To Jim Clark

REDLANDS — Jim R. Clark has been named recipient of the Collis H. Steere Scholarship Athletic Trophy.

Collis H. Steere, retired manufacturing chemist and known as a western desert historian, of 1625 El Elemeda in Palm Springs and also of Palo Alto, established the award at Redlands University to be given annually to the athlete with the best scholastic record.

A similar award was established by Steere at Menlo College. The award was highly regarded by students and became a spur to academic and athletic achievement, according to Charles O. Pierpont, vice president of business affairs and long time friend of Steere.

James White Funeral Rites This Morning

CATHEDRAL CITY — Funeral services for James Homer White, 68, were conducted this morning in Wiefels and Son Palm Springs Chapel. He died Monday in Rancho Mirage, following an apparent heart attack while at work.

A native of Arkansas, White had been a resident of Cathedral City for 17 years and made his home at 601 2nd St. He was manager of Costello Ranch in Rancho Mirage.

He is survived by his widow, Gertrude White of Cathedral City; three sons, Hollis White of Rancho Mirage, Howard White of Indio and Alvin White of San Bernardino; two daughters, Myrtle Largent of Redlands and Verlie McGowan of Palm Springs; one brother, Ray White of Mountain View, Ark.; and one sister, Alice Fulk of Michigan.

The Rev. C. R. Riley, pastor of the First Southern Baptist Church, conducted the services. Interment was in Desert Memorial Park.

Nuclear Blast Next Week Like Million Tons of TNT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It would take a string of railroad freight cars almost 190 miles long to haul enough TNT to equal the nuclear blast the United States plans to set off over the Pacific early next week.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department announced Thursday that the first in a series of high-altitude shots over Johnson Island is scheduled to be set off between 11 p.m. next Monday and 2:30 a.m. next Tuesday, Hawaiian Standard Time.

The explosion will be in the megaton range, meaning it will unleash a force equal to 1 million tons of TNT or more.

Defense Department ordnance experts normally pack no more than 50 tons of TNT in a freight car.

Thus, 20,000 freight cars would be needed to haul 1 million tons of TNT.

Alcatraz Escapees Drowned?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Fred T. Wilkinson, assistant director of the federal prison system, said today that he believes the three men who escaped from Alcatraz Prison Monday night have drowned.

"It would take an athlete to make such a swim," Wilkinson said. "The only swimming those fellows were accustomed to was in the little old creeks in the swamps of Florida and Louisiana."

Wilkinson, who came here from Washington to investigate the escape, said "the tides and winds that night were strong. The convicts were not the athletic type."

Meanwhile, 300 men were participating in an FBI-directed search for the three men, who used "all purpose" prison spoons to dig their way out of their cells.

The search, which so far has yielded no indication whether the three succeeded in their escape or drowned in San Francisco Bay, was described as the biggest Justice Department manhunt in the history of the West.

Army troops completed a thorough search Thursday of the woods and abandoned government buildings on nearby Angel Island without finding any trace of the fugitives—John William Anglin, 32, Montgomery, Ala., his brother, Clarence, 31, and Frank L. Morris, 35, New Orleans.

If the three got away alive, they would be the first to break out of "The Rock" since Alcatraz became a federal civilian prison in 1934.

Workshop Set For Idyllwild Arts Foundation

IDYLLWILD — The recorder workshop, a session at the University of Southern California Arts Foundation here, has enlarged this summer to include instruction in viola, lute and guitar.

It will be held from August 26 to 31, simultaneously with the Baroque and Contemporary English Music Festival, which will give the workshop members an opportunity to hear music of the 18th and 20th centuries for recorders, viola and orchestral instruments and voice.

Abrupt End to Sunny Vacation for Five in Stolen Los Angeles Car

Vacation in the sun came to an abrupt end yesterday for four Los Angeles boys and a Palm Springs girl, on lack of supervision and parental guidance. She is 12 years of age.

Patrolman Larry Sieh became suspicious of the youths when they started using a vacant house as home and when questioned, could not agree on how they came in possession of the car.

The four boys were released to the custody of their parents pending appearance in Los Angeles Juvenile Court. One of the youths is wanted by his parole officer. Possible charges will be made against the parents of the Palm Springs girl, on lack of supervision and parental guidance. She is 12 years of age.

Reluctance of Shell Costing Him Influence

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell's refusal to wholeheartedly endorse Richard M. Nixon for the governorship is costing him friends and influence today among GOP members of the state Assembly.

With a special session of the Legislature scheduled to begin June 26, a group of Republican assemblymen was organizing support for a plan to remove Shell as minority floor leader in the lower house, a job he has held since 1959.

William S. Ford, manager of Easterday Supply Co. in Palm Springs and a resident at 4234 Calle San Raphael, would like it known that he was not the party involved in a fire that occurred June 7.

On that date, another man by the same name was cited by police after a mattress caught fire at 2231 Palm Canyon Drive, and the supply company manager says he's never been there.

"I've been having trouble about another man by the same first name and middle initial living in the same town for about the last six years," Ford said.

How to pay for a Cadillac—and not get one!

There are several ways that a man can pay the price of a new Cadillac car—and find himself in possession of an automobile of far less stature.

Because there are many motorists currently considering the purchase of their next car, we would like to enumerate these ways of going astray.

1. Assume that the purchase price of a new Cadillac car is higher than it actually is. (There are eleven models of other makes that this year cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac model.)
2. Fail to appreciate that the basic price of a new Cadillac includes important things that are extra on many other cars. (Including automatic transmission, power steering and power braking.)
3. Neglect to find out from a Cadillac dealer what your present car is worth in trade. (He is especially anxious this spring to welcome new owners.)

And if you take one of these detours, think of all the unique pleasures you could be missing.

There is Cadillac's styling—so majestic that it attracts attention wherever it goes.

There is Cadillac's comfort—so wonderful that every journey becomes a brief vacation.

And there is Cadillac's performance—so great that it is without rival on the world's highways.

So we suggest that you play it safe—and get all the facts from your dealer soon.

You might be closer to a Cadillac than you think.

DOUBLE RINGS were exchanged by Jeannie Stuart and Dan Borden during an afternoon ceremony, held in the Mediterranean Room of the Riviera Hotel. The newlyweds will be at home in Pittsburgh, following a two week honeymoon in Seattle. (Anderson Photo)

Stuart Borden Rites Read In Mediterranean Room

In the Mediterranean Room of the Riviera Hotel, Jeannie Stuart and Dan Borden exchanged wedding vows during an afternoon ceremony.

The bride wore a single strand of pearls with her cocktail length chantilly lace gown, and a fingertip veil caught by a pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of tiny white orchids.

Mrs. Don Cole acted as matron of honor to her twin sister, and another sister, Mrs. Don Stone acted as bridesmaid. The attendants wore full-skirted yellow chiffon cocktail dresses and carried bouquets of blue carnations.

Ralph Cuniff acted as best man and Denny Dennett and Don Baker, a cousin to the bride, acted as ushers.

A lifelong friend to the groom, Superior Judge Martin Rutherford, travelled from Pittsburgh, Pa., to conduct the ceremony, which was followed by a reception.

A graduate of Palm Valley School and Lawton Medical School, the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Cecile Stuart and Sam Stuart, both of Palm Springs.

The groom attended schools in Pittsburgh and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Borden of Tracy, Calif.

Following a honeymoon in Seattle, where they will attend the World's Fair, the newlyweds will be at home at 460 West 10th St., Pittsburgh.

Foot Specialist Offers Tips for Easy Foot Care

A girl's first job can be hard on her feet if she's been wearing bobby sox and flat heels for years, says Dr. William M. Scholl, a foot care specialist.

He offered these tips for easing the changeover to high heels: Change heels heights gradually, first wearing mid - high heeled shoes, and graduating later to higher heels, if desired. This will prevent raising the arch to an unaccustomed position and causing a marked strain on foot and leg muscles.

Even after your feet become accustomed to high heels, interchange heel heights periodically. Pamper your feet more when wearing high heels. Tend irritations, rough spots and blisters immediately with a soothing, protective coating, and change shoes every day to ease tension or irritated portions of the foot.

Keep a pair of flat-heeled shoes at the office to relieve mid-day foot fatigue.

Pied Pipers Raise Funds through Luau

Key Club Is Turned into Bit of Hawaii

The Key Club at B-Bar-H was transformed into a little bit of Hawaii, when the Pied Pipers of Desert Hot Springs held their second annual fund-raising luau.

A gayly attired lei-wearing crowd of some 300 lined up to feast on such Hawaiian delicacies as barbecued spare ribs Samoan, chicken almond, shrimp oni, oni, crusted bananas, turkey kun koki ham halekahiki and banana bread.

Mrs. Ted (Glory) Munday of Palm Desert assisted by Red Edson emceed a program of entertainment which included a fashion show, staged poolside by models from Waltham Clarke's Hawaiian Shops in Palm Springs with Waltham acting as fashion commentator; hulas by talented Vera Sarup of Palm Springs and Verna Murphy, founder of the Desert Hot Notes Orchestra.

Matrons Hula

Enjoying a hula staged by a bevy of the Pied Pipers prettiest young matrons under the leadership of their president, Ann Wertz, were the Charles Eliots, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Burmesch, Mrs. Fern Norton, the Al Hortons, Mrs. Viola Dinsmore, General and Mrs. John Young, USMC Ret.; and Capt. and Mrs. C. M. Bartusch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haymes and their guests the Lee Johnsons of Huntington Beach, who have just bought a home in Desert Hot Springs, were laughing at the antics of Charles Stewart, who had arrayed himself in a colorful costume made of two large bath towels.

The Ted Spellazas, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Babin and Don and Enola Hulbert were there with Enola causing a minor sensation with the strawberry blond wig she was wearing. The Aaron M. Eatons were accompanied by their house guests, Mrs. Hazel Hopkins and Mrs. Virginia Anderson, who is leaving for Hawaii this week.

Among the guests from Palm Springs who watched pretty Ann Durst and her husband Gene nose out Mary and Bud Skuse to win first place in the Hawaiian twist contest, were the Charles Valentinos and Tony Consentino.

Going home richer were: Dennis Thorsen, with dinners for two at Palm Springs Aloha Joe's; Mrs. John Haidet, with a mumu from Waltham Clarke's Palm Springs Hawaiian Shop; Carl Kozmak, with slippers from Minna's Desert Fashions and Zed Gwartney, with a package from Viking Liquors.

Committee heads who chaired the successful event were: Mrs. Dennis Thorsen, food; Mrs. Pauline La Liberte, tickets; Mrs. Ed Jacobson, decorations; Mrs. Ted Munday, program; and Mrs. Sam Mooney, publicity.

Civil Defense Is Subject At Soroptimist Club Meet

Civil Defense in the desert area was discussed by Lt. Ted Greene, of the Palm Springs Police Dept., when the Soroptimist Club met at the Riviera Hotel.

In case of emergency, stated Greene, instruments for measuring radio activity are located at Desert Hospital and Palm Springs High School; beds and necessary equipment, to be set up at Katherine Finchy and Frances Stevens Schools, are stored at Desert Hospital; a local market is controlling food; and there are quite a few shelters in the Palm Springs area.

The Police Department is headquarters for Civil Defense and Mrs. Virginia Schuman is in charge of food and lodging. Cafeteria food is in the care of Mrs. Florence Lyster, and clothing supervised by Mrs. Elizabeth Gardiner.

Following the talk, Polly Isenagie presided at a short business meeting. Soroptimist Club will hold a stated meeting at Riviera Hotel on June 19, at 12:15 p.m. Guests will be welcome.

Hearty Sausage Is Satisfying

Any hearty sausage grilled over wood charcoal briquets is a satisfying main dish, when served with charcoal baked potatoes.

Try the plump, smoky, seasoned wursts of all kinds. Turn with tongs on the cooking rack so as not to pierce the skin. Good go-alongs are red cabbage, coleslaw or kale.

James Wald Now Slates 'Ulysses'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Until now novelist Grace Metalious and the late James Joyce had only two things in common. They were human and they wrote books.

But that's about as far as it went.

Joyce is revered by many scholars and students of the English language as the greatest writer since Shakespeare. Mrs. Metalious became a sensation for her "Peyton Place," a novel not particularly esteemed for its literary merit.

Yet it is a safe bet that Grace earned considerably more money from that one book than the venerated Joyce did from all his works.

Now, thanks to producer Jerry Wald, Joyce's masterpiece, "Ulysses," will be brought to movie screens.

It was Wald, too, who gave the world the celluloid version of "Peyton Place." Like the book, it cleaned up financially. Also like the book, it was met with shrieks of horror by the critics.

Has Wald's literary taste improved?

Does he hope to hypo "Ulysses" with some Metalious sex touches?

Seeks Diversity

"No, no, no," said Wald in his book-lined study. "It may seem strange to an outsider that I am going from 'Peyton Place' to 'Ulysses,' but the fact is that I am seeking diversity of product."

"I've just completed 'Adventures of a Young Man,' which was written by Hemingway, and I've already scheduled 'The Enemy Within,' by our Attorney General, Robert Kennedy."

Even Wald critics must admit on this evidence that Jerry has indeed diversified his product.

"You must try to please all segments of the movie audience," he said. "The only common denominator we strive for is quality."

Wald, a talkative man who has more ideas for movies in a month than most producers have in 10 years, has had his shares of turkeys. But more important is his significant record of hits.

"In a way, bringing 'Ulysses' to the screen is breaking precedent," he said. "In order to keep the movie industry healthy we must continue to experiment with new ideas."

Challenging Cinema

Among his experiments have been some of Hollywood's most provocative movies.

"I was the first producer to have a deaf-mute heroine, Jane Wyman in 'Johnny Belinda,'" Wald said. "And nobody else dared to make a musical about a man dying of cancer, but I did with 'The Eddie Duchin Story.'"

"They said 'Peyton Place' was too dirty to be made into a movie, but that didn't stop me."

"A movie without a leading lady and starring Cary Grant was unheard of. But I did it with Cary in 'Destination Tokyo,' a submarine picture, and it was a big hit."

"When Joan Crawford was leading the list of box office poison I took a chance with her in 'Mildred Pierce' and she won the Oscar. So you see it just proves you can't always follow the set rules and patterns. You have to go into something new to make successful movies."

VISITING QUEEN of the Rodeo Lucille Ball on the Warner Brothers' set of "Critics Choice" are Jimmy Durante, star of the 1962 Sheriff's Rodeo, and Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess, whose annual western event will be held June 23 at 8 p.m. in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Fred MacMurray will be grand marshal of the one-night-a-year western extravaganza which is being produced by the famous trick rider and roper, Montie Montana.

Most Average Income Families to Have Resort Vacations by 1970

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Resort vacations, now out of the reach of many average income families, will be on the budget plans by 1970 of an estimated 50 to 75 per cent more citizens, according to a Michigan State University tourist specialist.

"National studies show that families earning over $4,000 per year after taxes spend a lot more on leisure and recreation than those with lower incomes," said Robert McIntosh.

In 1957, the American Institute for Economic Research estimated about 24.3 million families earned more than $4,000 per year. By 1970 this figure is expected to reach 46 million families, McIntosh said.

The estimates were based on the assumption that production per person will rise about 3 per cent each year between now and 1970, just as it has since 1946, and that the growing population will boost the man hours of labor about 1.2 per cent each year.

"Putting these together, America's production of goods and services should increase nearly 50 per cent by 1970," McIntosh said.

In 1970, the tourist and resort specialist predicted, American families would earn about $25 billion above what they will spend for "necessities." This would be almost double the amount now available for "luxury" expenditures.

"All this paints a bright picture for resorts," McIntosh said.

Blue and Gray

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If TV viewers who follow the adventures of Bronco Layne in "The Cheyenne Show" are confused which side he fought on during the Civil War, they have company. Ty Hardin who plays the role says: "One week I'm wearing the Blue and the next week the Gray. But I take heart, the wardrobe department always gives me a good fit."

Alcohol, taken in sufficient quantities, produces all the effects of intoxication.

New Show Excuse for Drinking

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Since NBC-TV's new "Mystery Theater" is a summer show, it is possible that its creators do not keep up on winter happenings, such as protests against unnecessary violence and congressional hearings.

For example, in its premiere program Wednesday night, we were witness to a heart-warming scene in which a jealous wife (Jan Sterling) ventilates her drunk husband with a bread knife.

This was carried off with outrageous crudeness, but apparently it was not enough for the producers. A little later, we were offered the equally charming vignette of Miss Sterling washing the blood from the knife under a kitchen faucet, which I was not fortunate enough to see in color.

As an added fillip, we were also shown Miss Sterling viewing the stiff at the morgue. In sum, the story — the usual one about the romantic triangle — was brutal yet dull, vulgar, witless and unimaginative, but was otherwise perfect.

The reason Miss Sterling was jealous was that, after reforming her alcoholic spouse and making him a successful writer, he took up with a tramp waitress, who also tipsles when she's not top-irresponsible, inconsiderate and ungrateful; in other words, if he had failed as a writer, he might have been a successful actor.

Unlike entertaining mystery thrillers, such as those by Agatha Christie, Wednesday night's show lacked the glamor, humor and crackling dialogue necessary in such works. In addition, there was no mystery.

We knew who did it, how she did it, and why. It was only a matter of time until she was caught. The waitress (Beverly Garland) was suspected by police, but there was no question that Miss Sterling would be trapped by an eyeglass case she dropped at the scene.

None of the characters was appealing. Miss Sterling played a dowdy matron, Miss Garland a screaming simpton. And there were drunks all over the place.

Not only the husband and Miss Garland, but her court-appointed lawyer too; he came in under the wire as a former drunk. The only justified drinking was by viewers.

Makes Basic Error

I think the writer of the teleplay made his basic error by not knocking off the wife. She was the kind of mate who said, "Where are you going, dear?" and "Don't you want me to come with you?" There was a sort of logic to disposing of her.

Instead, we got the usual cat meowing in a darkened hallway. And, though it embarrasses me to tell you, there was actually a twist of plot in which the wife helps the defense lawyer because, according to the story line, she feels pity for an underdog.

Miss Garland, television's top screamer, was right on key again as she added another role to her portrayals of drunks and basket cases. My fondest dream is to see her and Lee Marvin in a revival of "Maytime."

To Visit Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said Tuesday the former President has tentatively planned to visit several countries during a trip to Europe next month.

The spokesman said Eisenhower hoped to go to London, Copenhagen, Paris, Scotland and Dublin in connection with a trip to Stockholm where he will address an education conference.

BACK HOME

Dodgers Stung By Braves, 7-1

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, stung by their first road series defeat of the season, tonight returned home to open a long stay at Chavez Ravine with a game against the Houston Colts.

Bob Shaw, who may not be exactly what made Milwaukee famous, left the Dodgers with something to remember again Thursday—a 7-1 defeat by the Braves as Los Angeles ended its two and one-half week road trip.

It was Shaw's second victory over the Dodgers this season and handed Los Angeles its only road series loss of the year—and only the second series defeat of the season at home or away.

When Shaw stopped the Dodgers on six hits, it gave the Braves the get away series, two games to one. But thanks to the usual June tailspin of the San Francisco Giants, the Dodgers retained their two-game lead in the National League.

Enigmatic Stan Williams, who along with Johnny Podres seems to be fighting for Don Drysdale's old place of problem pitcher of the year, couldn't last the first inning Thursday against the Braves. He got only one batter out before being relieved by Ed Roebuck.

Happy to be unbothered with Williams' troubles, Drysdale (10-3) attempts to settle the Dodger pitching woes again when he works tonight. Ex-Dodger Jim Golden (3-4) will pitch for the Colts.

Williams, unlike certain other major league pitchers, was reported to have had a good night's sleep before he came to the mound Thursday. It didn't help him much—neither did his infield.

Leadoff batter Tommy Aaron opened the brave first inning with a roller to Dodger third baseman Daryl Spencer. Roy McMillan singled, and Eddie Mathews sent home Tommy with a sacrifice fly. Up came Tommy's older brother Hank Aaron who powered his 12th homer of the season to make the score 4-0. Two more walks and a single ran the score to 5-0 and ran Williams out of the game.

Trailing 6-0 in the seventh, the Dodgers scored their only run of the game when Willie Davis doubled and Tommy Davis singled him in. It ran Tommy's league-leading runs batted in total to 65.

Neal Green Pitches One-Hitter

Chuck's Beat
Sultans, 5-0,
For Loop Lead

Fans at the Polo Grounds last night were treated to a stellar pitching performance by Neal Green of Chuck's Welding as they defeated the Coachella Valley Sultans 5-0, on a masterful one hit pitching performance by Green.

The one hit was an accidental blooper over first base in the fifth inning. Not one other Sultan reached base, as Green whiffed 11, and walked none. The victory allows the Welders to take over first place in the city standings.

Chuck's have now won their first four games of the league season, with Green winning three of them. The defending champions are scheduled to play again next week on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, against the Desert Sun, and the Mexican Colony in that order.

In the earlier game last night, Massey Sand and Gravel turned the Telephone Company under to the tune of 7-0. The Gravel boys didn't have a close moment in the game, and coasted all the way to the victory.

Some 120 persons turned out to view the city softball action on a cool breezy evening wrapped in blankets and heavy jackets and got a full evening's entertainment at no expense.

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — They set out in pursuit of little Gene Littler in the second round of the U.S. Open golf championship today and everybody agreed that the mechanical man would take a lot of catching.

The silent, sandy-haired Californian, known to his fellow pros as "Gene the Machine," had only played 27 "sloppy" practice holes over awesome Oakmont Country Club. But he went out there and shot a two under par 35-34-69 which put him on the head end by one shot.

With Ezell James doing the hurling, the Bejacks nosed out the Pirates, 4-3, in a Keystone League baseball game Thursday afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

In the four inning game, the Pirates pushed two runs across in the second inning and added their final tally in the bottom of the last inning as the Bejacks were held scoreless until the fourth when they collected their four runs which supplied them with a one run margin.

Over in the Pony League, the Chi Chi Angels raced to a 20 to 4 win over the Elks nine as Charles Flores and Dick Brubaker each homered for the winning Chi Chi club.

SETS TRACK RECORD
PARIS (UPI) — Michel Jazy, France's star middle distance runner, set a world record for the 2,000-meters Thursday with a time of 5 minutes, 1.6 seconds. He bettered by six seconds by the mark of Hungarian Istvan Rozsvalovyi, established in October, 1955 in Budapest.

old Kentuckian playing out of Midland, Tex., and bespectacled Bob Rosburg, the PGA champion from Portland, Ore.

And two strokes away was a surging sixsome headed by Arnold Palmer, the 5-1 pre-tournament favorite. Palmer's finger, gashed Sunday night, wasn't bothering him "at all" but his putting was as he carded a 36-35-71. Palmer was laboring until he put on one of his patented stretch runs, running off a string of five straight threes — including three birdies on the final five holes — to get back into a challenging position.

All square with golf's leading money winner were South African Gary Player, who moaned the putting blues, too, as he tried to become the first foreign winner in 42 years; veteran Billy Maxwell; Bob Schoener of Bethlehem, Pa.; Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex., and J.C. Gossie of Largo, Fla., who three-putted twice in bogeying the last three holes.

Keglers Korner

Nancy Fritzel rolled hi - game for the women keglers last night at the PS Bowl with a score of 169 and Audrey Barrett took hi-series honors with a total of 426 pins.

Mike Caricato nailed down hi-game score for the men with a total of 215 and Bob Newberry racked up a 557 series to be tops.

The G & H Pools team lost three and won one from the Why Knots; the Superdopers shutout the Chargers, 4-0, and the Headaches split 2-2 with the Hertz Rent-A-Car.

Angels Halos Dimmed, 5-4

CHICAGO (UPI) — Classy Ken McBride tonight goes after his sixth straight win as the Los Angeles Angels open their 23-game road trip against the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Bill Rigney gave McBride no easy task in sending him against the veteran Early Wynn who is in quest of his 29th major league victory. Wynn currently has a 3-4 record, while McBride is 6-3.

The Angels flew here early today after dropping a cliffhanger by a 5-4 score to the Minnesota Twins. But despite the loss, the Angels had a 10-7 record for their lengthy home stand and were firmly entrenched in fourth place.

No Decision For Bo

A two-run homer by Billy Moran in the seventh inning tied the score 4-4, and saved starter Bo Belinsky from being charged with the loss which went to La's third relief pitcher, Art Fowler.

"Belinsky had pretty good stuff aside from his wildness," Rigney said. "The first time I went to the mound I told him to keep throwing, because his pitches were effective."

The Rookie, who 24 hours earlier had been fined $250 for staying out all night with teammate Dean Chance, gave up only two earned runs but left the game in the sixth trailing, 3-2. Reliever Bob Botz served a homer to Bernie Allen to increase the Twins' lead to a pair of runs.

Los Angeles tied the score on Moran's homer, but the Twins went ahead in the ninth on Lenny Green's single which sent home Zorro Versalles from second.

Last Gasp

The Angels, however, still were in the game in the bottom of the ninth when Joe Koppe singled, was sent to second on a sacrifice and Albie Pearson walked. But ex-Angel Jim Donohue relieved Minnesota starter Kim Kaat and got Moran to hit into an odd double play—Versalles forcing Pearson at second and throwing to plate to catch Koppe in a rundown for the final out.

Because of Belinsky's walks, the Angels were in trouble every inning with Minnesota runners on the bases. The twins eventually stranded 16 men before picking up the second win of the three-game series.

Tonight's game will be televised into Southern California.

Where Standards Are High

"Once a year, several men, each carrying a dispatch case, walk unannounced into the head office of each firm in the New York Stock Exchange. The men represent America's top independent public accountant organizations and the purpose of their visits is a surprise audit of each broker's books. When their examinations—which may last from a few days to six weeks—are concluded, the New York Stock Exchange is set to determine whether the broker is obeying its and the government's strict rules."

Thus writes financial columnist Sylvia Porter. She is describing one of the many ways in which this exchange, the country's foremost, protects the interest of the 15 million or so people who now own stocks listed on its Big Board—and will safeguard the interest of the additional millions who are expected to become shareholders as time rolls on. To quote her once again, "Standards are high, rules are strictly enforced, they're getting tougher—and that's the best safeguard for you."

The exchange's policy is an example, and a fine one, of how responsible enterprise can, if it will, police itself. The whole securities industry is subject to public regulation and long has been. But the New York Stock Exchange has recognized that something more is needed, and it has supplied that need. It demands frequent reports of operations of its member firms, and the partners and employees of these firms must be insured against fraud or dishonesty. Any deviation from the standards bring swift punishment.

Finally, it's up to the investor to take full advantage of the safeguards he is offered—buying on the basis of accurate information and avoiding the tipster and the stock dynamiter.

The Tax-Exemption Farce

It is often difficult to understand the workings of the political mind. For example, the proposed new federal income tax rules would establish a withholding tax on interest and dividends. The theory is that most U.S. citizens cheat on their tax returns, and thus by making the companies paying interest and dividends withhold 20 per cent of the amount to be paid to investors and savers before they get it, the government would get its full pound of flesh.

The foregoing is one way the political mind works. Now consider another way whereby it permits tax exemptions. Congress will spend $100 million, $500 million or $1 billion for a federal power project, and make it tax-exempt. Such a project is strictly a commercial enterprise, not a legitimate function of government such as defense, roads, and the like which are tax-exempt because they serve all the people equally, not a special few.

A federal power plant cuts rates below taxpayer investor-owned electric companies whose taxes help build it. It sells its power to a limited number of customers whose electric rates include no sum for taxes to help support government, and pay for public services from which they benefit the same as electric customers whose bills include tax costs. The taxes escaped by such government-owned commercial enterprises constitute a tax loophole of hundreds of millions of dollars, and they eliminate the taxes that investor-owned utilities would otherwise be paying if they supplied the electric service.

Yes, it's queer the way the political mind works.

"It has often been pointed out in recent years that a good sampling of medical authority has become convinced that heavy cigarette smoking causes lung cancer . . . We are not medical authorities, and no newspaper editor is. However, in the light of the solid evidence which has been developing in recent years, every heavy smoker, at the minimum, should consider what knowledge and science is increasingly proving about heavy smoking."

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

What's Pacifism Doing to Our Mettle?

WASHINGTON — Call it a sesquicentennial of sorts. It was 150 years ago that "warhawks" in Congress (some of them like certain senators today) were driving the milkop Madison Administration toward a fight for the freedom of the seas. Although disastrous in many ways, the War of 1812 did force Britain and France to quit picking on our young republic. The war created in Clay, Calhoun, Jackson and others the leadership of the half century follow.

Watching such senators as Goldwater whose new book is called "Why Not Victory?", Dodd who constantly urges that we fear on the enemy, Thurmond who calls Mr. Kennedy's excessive caution a "No Win" policy, any history-minded observer is bound to see a similarity with the situation of a century and a half ago.

"Forget the Alamo"

Not that the modern Warhawks are demanding war. They are only demanding that we dismiss our fear of war. They are not against peace, but against peace-at-any-price. Goldwater has lampooned the Democratic tip-toe tactics by charging that our old maxims have been revised. "Don't give up the ship—we've only begun to negotiate!" and so on. Not actually warmongers, these senators, like their 1812 counterparts are striving to arouse the administration to carry the fight to an enemy which blocks what could be called modern equivalent of freedom of the seas—that is, freedom of movement in the realm of ideas—and, of course, an enemy which threatens our national interests in many ways.

These senators, and all who support them, are right in what they are doing. Soviet theoreticians admit that there can never be any coexistence or live-and-let-live in the rival ideologies of communism and the West. Their side can never be tolerant toward private enterprise and religion, nor can our side be tolerant toward absolutism and atheism. By their nature, the Communists are enemies with whom reconciliation is unthinkable.

Russian Hard Deserted

Moreover, the modern Warhawks are right from a practical viewpoint in trying to combat our unreasonable fear of provoking combat. Russia has a far greater reason to dread warfare than this country which hasn't had conflict on its soil since the War Between the States. Russia lost something like 20 million persons in World War II, enough to make it a searing reality in the memory of every Russian family. Khrushchev and the Kremlin leaders know that five million Russian soldiers deserted to the enemy in the first months of war, indicating what would surely happen again.

In their forthcoming book called "The New Frontier of War," William Kintner and Joseph Kornfeder have a chapter on Communism reading among the pacifist bloc of the Kennedy administration. Here are some vital weaknesses at which an aggressive American policy should be directed:

1. Marxist and Leninist literature, revolutionary in nature, is subtly preparing the Russian people to revolt against their dictatorship.

2. Imperialism, denounced daily by Communist leaders, is practiced by the Communist system on a grand scale, and inhumanity within Communist countries is untempered by a working system of law and justice.

3. As Khrushchev ages, and when he dies, the scramble for succession will put the Soviet system in jeopardy.

4. A Soviet leader who involved his people in a shooting war would risk both popular revolt and military mutiny.

Democrats Are Worried

With another election looming, Democrats are already worrying about what the exposure of an American force to combat conditions in South East Asia will do to their political fortunes. Deservedly or not, the Democrats have been the party in modern times which has taken the nation to war. No doubt, the Democratic candidates would like to run on domestic issues and hope that the administration pacifists will continue the soft talk and not scare the country with thoughts of war.

But soft talk to the Communists, and the coddling of our fear of war, should be of grave concern all who love this country. What is this fearfulness doing to our American mettle? What is it doing to our allies and the neutralist nations where it is common knowledge that if the USA doesn't stand up to world communism, nobody else will do so? An influential newspaper in Zurich, Switzerland, recently ran a long editorial deploring American flirtation with appeasement. The last paragraph reads (translated from the German):

"The Cold War has not yet found its Master of Strategy. In his inaugural speech, President Kennedy made the impression that he was this strategist. Perhaps it is too early to give up this hope."

Those senators who fight our fear of war, and press Mr. Kennedy to take stronger positions, are today their country's best friends.

Sunday's the Big Day,
The day I can gloot,
It's Fathers' Day when
They fete the old goat

In my case, the term Old Goat isn't out of line. The astrologists tell me I'm an Aries which, according to the dictionary, is a Ram. And a Ram is a he-goat.

BACK HERE in Hindsdale, Ill., the grandsons are mapping big plans. It's going to be a double-header. Their dad and their dad's dad will be the targets. There are many whispered consultations and their mother and Mrs. G have been nicked for many a piece of change.

I'll probably be wearing a new necktie — with a touch of red in some place — come June 17.

YESTERDAY, the 13-year-old No. 1 grandson was leaning over the typewriter and discovered I was writing about Flag Day. So he took me up into his room to tell me a few facts about the flag.

He pulled an encyclopedia (a Junior high graduation gift) from the shelf, sat me down in a chair, and gave me the works.

FLAG DAY was first observed in 1861 at Hartford, Conn., so it is 101 years old. But congress didn't get around to designate June 14 as National Flag Day until August, 1949, and the first such national observance was in 1950. So 80 years after it started, it became official.

The Stars and Stripes was authorized on June 14, 1777. It's first appearance in combat came three months later.

THAT PLEDGE of Allegiance you recite at service club meetings and other gatherings is 70 years old, he told me. It was first published and recited in Boston in 1892.

There was a dispute over who wrote it and it wasn't until 1939 that the United States Flag Association credited one Francis Bellamy as he author. It was amended once, not so long ago, with the addition of the words, "under God."

So now I know a lot more about the flag. So do you.

SUPERSTITIOUS? Not me. Oh I may scream to high heaven if somebody puts my hat on a bed or I walk under a ladder and serious things like that. That's always bad luck.

The day before heading eastward, we stopped by a friend's house en route to Hollypark. When it came time to go, I found our hostess had tossed my hat on a bed! I knew right then I should shun the gallopings but didn't want to seem to sulk and be a spoilsport.

BUT I WAS MAD. Saw a ladder leaning against the garage and, figuring all was lost anyway, deliberately walked under it. I didn't smash my mirrors because I was afraid my hostess might not like it.

So I went along prepared to lose my shirt. What happened? I hit a fat dairy double, the first in a long time.

I may even write one of these things on a Friday, the 13th. But I don't think I will. Could be unlucky, you know.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN:

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: Last night our 19-year-old daughter called us from over the state line and told us she was married. It is okay for a girl her age to be married in that state, but not this one. She and the 20-year-old boy have gone together a year. They are both in college and my husband and I are ready to break their necks. We don't know what to do. She said she was married in the courthouse and we want her married in a church. "Is" it too late for that now? Please advise us. —MIDNIGHT LETTER

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a young man and plan to marry him soon. Recently he told me that he is in the habit of sleeping in his underwear, and intends to do so after we are married. (He picked up this habit in the Army.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who likes his night out once a week. I usually go out with my father and we throw darts. My wife started hollering for a night out once a week, too, so I said, "Okay, so go already." She goes out with her girl friends and they stop into a bar for a drink and then see a movie. I don't like her in bars without me and told her so. But she says there is no harm in it. I trust her, but do you think I am trusting her too much? We have been married 10 years and have three children. —JOSE

DEAR JOSE: A married woman should not "stop into a bar" with other girls. Compromise. Tell her, "Movies, si-bars, no!"

DEAR ABBY: You were right the first time. In Napoli, Italy they eat pizza with a knife and fork. I saw it myself and have the pictures to prove it. —ANOTHONY ROCCO

DEAR ABBY: Can a man who has a legal separation in one state get married legally in another state? I don't think he can, but he says yes. —ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: A legal separation is only a separation, not a divorce. One who is only thus separated "cannot" marry anywhere.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "Abby", care of this paper.

Massachusetts Senatorial Race Amuses Capital

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For some reason, the Democratic senatorial contest in Massachusetts this year has been a source of considerable amusement here in the nation's capital.

I have endeavored to ascertain the cause of the merriment, but it has eluded me.

Apparently, it has something to do with the fact that one of the candidates, Ted Kennedy, is the brother of the President while the other, Ed McCormack, is the nephew of Speaker John McCormack.

Frankly, I don't see anything very humorous about that. Most people have relatives, for politicians the more the better. It could happen to anyone.

But if all of the "Ted & Ed" jokes spawned during the campaign were laid end to end, they would reach from Pat to Mike.

Took Note Of Levy
No less a personage than Sen. Edmund S. Muskie took note of the levity in the situation when he addressed the Massachusetts Democratic convention at Springfield Thursday night.

In his home state of Maine, Muskie said, "we Democrats used to wonder whether we could find enough candidates to match the job opportunities available."

"I understand that you have a somewhat different problem," he added.

"It will be up to the convention to choose between Ted and Ed, and Muskie made it plain that he didn't envy the delegates that task."

In view of the intensity of the contest, he said he was "glad to be representing the United States Senate rather than the White House or the House of Representatives."

At the moment, he explained, the Senate could be considered "neutral ground," which took him off the spot.

Relieved About Johnson
"I am relieved that Lyndon Johnson has no relatives running in Massachusetts," he commented.

Muskie went on to recall that some 65 years ago "the chief justice of the Supreme Court" the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate were all downeast Yankees" from Maine.

"It is obvious that Massachusetts is doing its best to match that record," he said.

He also noted that either Ted or Ed would be running against a Republican candidate in the general election.

"Indeed, it is apparent that no matter whom you choose for your senatorial nominee, the campaign this fall will be a contest between the dynasty and the dinosaurs," he said.

I thought, however, that Muskie best summed up the situation with the observation that Massachusetts Democrats seemed to be "joking more now but enjoying it less."

QUOTES

SEOUL, Korea — Pyongyang Radio, quoting Pfc. Larry A. Abshire, a U.S. soldier whom the Communist claim defected to North Korea:

"All the American soldiers stationed in South Korea, if they really want to save themselves from the destiny of death and meet their parents, wives and children again, and if they really want peace, should oppose the war machinations of the American rulers and demand that they be returned to their homeland at once."

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy, noting that Panamanian President Roberto F. Chiari had brought with him to Washington the opposition leader in Panama:

"The bi-partisan position is strong here. And I will take Everett (Dirksen, Senate minority leader) with me whenever I go out of the United States in an attempt to follow your example."

WASHINGTON — Philadelphia police inspector Frank Rizzo, unimpressed by the testimony of a former B-girl before the Senate Rackets subcommittee:

"It's much more vicious than she has described it. I could be a better B-girl."

EXCAVATION of the lower level is well underway with the construction of the new 131 room, $2,500,000 Palm Springs Spa Hotel which is being built adjacent to the present Spa edifice. The year 'round health hotel will be contemporary in design with a connecting enclosed portico to the baths and pools for the convenience of the hotel guests. Completion date is set for late January, 1963.

Palm Desert Zone Change Is Approved

RIVERSIDE — A change of zone from W-1 (watershed area) to R-3 (general residential) has been approved by the board of supervisors for a 1,500-foot strip of land extending southwesterly from the intersection of Portola Avenue and Carriage Trail in the Palm Desert area.

The action was taken following a hearing at which no one appeared to speak either for or against the zone change.

Palm Springs Resort Hotel Purchase Told

Sale of the Desert Isle Hotel by the builders, Adolph and Mary Bremer, has been announced by Ken Herman, who represented all parties in the transaction.

The property was purchased for "approximately $750,000" by Steve and Barbara Brooks, who said they will continue "the same fine policies that the hotel is noted for."

The 40-unit hotel is located on five acres adjoining Smoke Tree ranch and includes deluxe apartments, spacious grounds and two swimming pools, one of which has an island.

The Brooks, who have previously made their home in Europe, have moved into the elaborate home on the property.

In modern life nothing produces such an effect as a good platitude. It makes the whole world kin.

Hikers Warned Of Danger from Poison Ivy

Don't poison yourself — roasting hot dogs or other foods. When on a picnic or camp out, be sure the wood you use isn't from the oleander bush. Both the wood and the smoke from the wood are poison, for which there is no known antidote.

Also remember that the seeds of the castor bean are in the same deadly poison family, with no known antidote. Enjoy yourself on camp outs, but be around for the next one.

Protests May Bring Lower Tax

PASADENA — Property owners with a possible tax problem were advised today by Richard Nevins, Southern California Member of the State Board of Equalization of the steps necessary to make their presentations to the proper authorities.

"This is the time of the year when a property owner who has a question in his mind about the value of his property for tax purposes, should prepare himself to discuss the matter either with his County Assessor during June, or prepare his case for the County Board of Equalization which begins its annual meeting on July 2, 1962," Nevins stated.

"Assessors, or their staff, are available for discussion at any time, but final values are not completed until June. Errors or discrepancies which become apparent from discussions in June can be corrected on Assessor's rolls prior to formal hearings by the County Board of Supervisors," Nevins explained.

The next step in this procedure, if the taxpayer is still dissatisfied, is the filing of a request with the County Board of Supervisors, sitting as a County Board of Equalization, to adjust the value. The forms for filing may be secured at the County Clerk's office. A hearing before this Board is essential in order to obtain subsequent relief in the courts.

Nevins further advised the taxpayer, planning to appear before the County Board, to have a concise statement prepared showing why his property is not valued on the same basis as similar property. Examples of nearby parcels equal in market value, but assessed at lower amounts, should be cited. As a guide, California assessments are close to twenty-five per cent of the market value of the property.

Service District Could Aid Fight on Blow Sand

RIVERSIDE — A requirement that subdivisions initiate a county service area has been suggested by Supervisor George Berkey and referred to the county planning commission for consideration. The service area would be a condition of approval of the subdivision map.

Berkey observed that a county service area could be the answer to many problems, including the tying in of sewage disposal to main lines.

"It might eliminate the overlapping of special districts," commented Supervisor Paul Anderson.

Education isn't pay — and it can't be made to look like play. It is hard, hard work. But it can be made interesting work.

Sun City Impressive

SUN CITY The Del E. Webb Corporation's building force at Sun City has announced for an impressive array of facts and figures in the many varied stages of construction on the huge 14,000 acres Menifee Valley location, between Elsinore and Hemet.

A duplicate of internationally famous Sun City, Ariz., the new retirement community offers an active new way of life. Scheduled for a grand opening to the public on the weekend of June 16 and 17.

Rains early this spring caused delay for builders but now with deadlines met and with a chance to review the project Webb officials have had a chance to check and release some interesting details.

DESERT GARDENING

Summer Roses Need Shade, Special Care

From now until September the average rose garden will produce only some desultory roses unless the plants are in good shade and heavily watered.

By all means between now and September put away your rose pruning scissors. Let the leaves provide shades for the stalks and bud unions. A two inch layer of peat moss in each basin will lessen evaporation and also cut down your water bills.

Some floribundas, such as Jimmy Crickets, will show excellent blooms despite the heat. If you cut off its bloom as it reaches the drying up stage you will be helping the plant.

A pyracantha hedge, if grown without a concrete or wooden fence, needs more water in the summer heat and if planted against the supports will need still more water to retain a healthy appearance. Wooden or concrete fences absorb the summer heat unless shaded by overhanging trees. They take a long time to cool off in summer heat hence the need for watering. This condition might be ameliorated slightly by heavy spraying of the fence or wall at sundown.

Oleanders Need Trimming
Mature Oleanders are less thirsty than most decorative plants and should be heavily trimmed at this time so that filling the basin once a week would supply sufficient nutrition. This, together with a heavy spraying of aphid-destroying insecticide, should then carry the Oleanders through the summer and leave your mind at ease when you are away on vacation.

We have heard of pyracantha being plagued by aphids but, up to the present, have seen none of these pests on our six foot hedge nor have we heard of anyone with a pyracantha hedge being worried by these pests.

However there are many other pests that feed on plant life, we keep our eyes open because of this condition. Red spider mites, mealy bugs, thrip, four lined leaf bug, rose-leaf hopper, white fly, green hopper, etc., are always busy looking for a meal. To eliminate as many of these as possible we use a mixture of Malathion, Lindane, and D.D.T., using a spray attached to a hose to insure an even spreading of the insecticides.

Underground Pests
For the elimination of underground pests we have found wetted D.D.D. — obtainable dry at local nurseries — an excellent destroyer of sod worms, etc. Incidentally, the Malathion mixture occasionally sprayed on your outside walls will help keep flies away from your property. This, and the city ordinance against the stowage of stagnant manure, should very much lessen the prevalence of flies in our city.

To keep a diandra lawn in good shape here on the low desert is one of the toughest jobs for a gardener. The winds carry seeds of all kinds into a lawn. Shortly winter grass, bermuda, and a dozen other pests show up.

We have come to the conclusion that a perfect diandra lawn can only be satisfactory if there is absolutely no wind or even a zephyr. We decided to let what diandra we have at present carry on and have turned to lipia. It is more coarse than diandra but in a year or so lipia will have covered the lawn.

Doll Clothes Designer Buys Desert Home

Mrs. Dora A. Babcock of Reno, Nev., who recently purchased a home in Deepwell where she will make her permanent home, is well known as designer of doll clothes and says she plans to continue her interesting work here.

Living with her will be her granddaughter, Miss Jean Carotte, who is enrolled as a student at the College of the Desert as a drama and music student. Miss Carotte is now playing in summer stock at Laguna Beach.

Sale of the home was made by Pat Diaz associated with the Hoyce Chapman Real Estate Office.

Thousands Now Enjoy New Tree

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — A genetic search that began 29 years ago has been paying dividends in shade to several thousand customers of a nurseryman-botanist who chose this desert community for its soil and climate.

Tex Reese, active, wind-weathered hybridist who moved his Tupelo Gardens nursery here for more room and the desert climate, has produced an evergreen that probes the earth for its own water source.

The Reese Hybrid Mesquite dates back to 1933, when Reese learned that distant Peru has a thornless mesquite. He pondered the possibilities of matching the thornless South American tree with the hearty, spiny Mojave mesquite and swung into action.

15 Years of Research
"It's not a simple business," Reese observed. He reported that the hybrids resulted from a 15-year research.

"The whole thing involves genetics, a study of the species origin, and of course it's a lot like mathematics, and the genetic studies naturally are mathematics," Reese explained.

The math of the desert mesquite cross from North and South America made botanical news. The hybrid took on the desirable qualities of both trees.

"This tree grows rapidly, and it's immune to the disease and insect pests that bother many trees attempting to get a start in the desert," Reese reported. A fast, hardy grower, the mesquite is unaffected by heat, and after gain-

TWO YEARS in this location saw these Mesquite hybrid trees well above the roof-top of a one-story building. The fast-growing tree is evergreen in the desert, developer Tex Reese, Desert Hot Springs, reports and needs little water.

ing a two-year start, it's unaffected by drought.

A thick, leafy tree, the Reese Hybrid Mesquite has the shape and thornless qualities of the Peruvian ancestor, and the tough resistance to trouble of the Mojave native.

Shape for Decoration
"A lot of people like the shape of them for decoration, as well as the fact that a three will grow from a shoot to useful size in a couple of years," Reese said.

Sun loving, the hybrid is a dense tree that provides low-level wind break, and is effective as a sand-stopper, Reese advised.

"Because of the density and low-level branches, the wind is stopped and will drop sand on the windward side of a row of these hybrids," Reese said.

Riverside county's park department, which has planted 700 of the trees, and several military installations and the U.S. Forestry service seem to agree with him.

"We're growing a desert tree — so the fertile desert is the place for us," Reese concluded.

Roof Truss Plant Opens

The first company on the West Coast to manufacture roof truss connectors for the giant building component industry began operations this week in Riverside.

The firm, Sanford Industries of California, Inc., is located on a 15-acre site in Hunter Industrial Park at 1770 Chicago Avenue.

It began manufacturing operations with 20 employees, according to A. Carol Sanford, president. Sanford estimates that the staff will be doubled by next autumn. The Sanford firm, founded in Florida, is said to be the largest prefabricated roof truss system in the world. In California, Sanford has approximately 25 dealers who furnish roof truss rafters to home builders.

"The plant's opening," Sanford states, "is the culmination of a year's planning to provide fast local service and lower shipping costs to California and other western states. California's unparalleled growth," Sanford added, "has triggered the move and we expect this plant to be our largest manufacturing facility within a short period."

GEORGE E. CUNNINGHAM of Palm Springs is making like a carpenter in this shot. But he's not a carpenter. He's a salesman. And this is not a do-it-yourself project either. George is a building materials salesman and he's learned the proper application of the products he sells for U. S. Gypsum Co. under a training program conducted by the firm.

Bureau of Standards Sheds Light on Bulbs

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Electrical manufacturers know how to produce light bulbs that will last a lifetime.

But the standard bulbs which you buy in the market burn out after an average of 750 to 1,000 hours of use.

Putting those facts together, you might conclude — as many consumers have — that manufacturers are deliberately putting out an inferior product to assure themselves of a constant replacement market.

But you would be 100 per cent wrong, report scientists at the National Bureau of Standards.

The bureau has conducted extensive studies of the matter to provide purchasing guidance for the U. S. government, the world's largest user of light bulbs.

Its findings can be summed up as follows:

The standard five-month light bulb is a better buy for ordinary household and office use than the long-life bulbs which burn for years.

L. E. Barrow, chief of the photometry and colorimetry section of the Bureau of Standards, explains why this is true.

The efficiency of a light bulb, in terms of the amount of illumination it produces per watt of electric power consumed, is directly related to the temperature at which its filament burns.

The hotter the filament, the more light you get per watt of power. On the other hand, the hotter the filament, the sooner it burns out.

To take a couple of extreme examples, a photoflood lamp used for taking indoor pictures produces more than 30 lumens of light per watt. But it burns out after 3 to 6 hours.

On the other hand, a 230-volt lamp operated at the standard household power of 120 volts would last about one million hours. But its efficiency of light production would be extremely low — about 3 lumens per watt.

Shows Bulbs Efficiency

Tests by the bureau show that the optimum efficiency for ordinary household use is obtained when the cost of the electric power consumed by a bulb throughout its lifetime is approximately seven times the cost of the bulb itself.

The mathematics of this computation are very complicated, but it figures out that you get the most light for your money with standard bulbs that last from 750 to 1,000 hours.

This does NOT mean that long-life bulbs are always a bad buy. On the contrary, Barrow points out, there are some cases in which they are a wise investment. For example, if a light bulb is located in a relatively inaccessible place, so that replacing it is difficult or even hazardous, you'd be well advised to install a "lifetime" bulb there and accept the relative inefficiency of light production as a lesser evil than risking your neck to replace a standard bulb every few months.

By the same logic, lifetime bulbs may make economic sense where labor costs of replacing burned out bulbs enter into the calculation.

SUNKEN RECREATIONAL area is part of the Bermuda Colonies bordering the first fairway and green of Bermuda Dunes Country Club. Only six units remain to be sold in the recreational - residential complex, which is comprised of 25 two-bedroom, two-bath own-your-own apartments. When these sales are consummated total sales volume for this phase of the Ray Ryan and Ernie Dunlevie Bermuda Dunes development will reach the $1,000,000 mark.

Bermuda Colonies Attract Interest

The widespread interest in the Bermuda Colonies at Bermuda Dunes Country Club has attracted has resulted in a boom at the Ray Ryan-Ernie Dunlevie 1,000-acre development, according to David Bixler, Bermuda Dunes' executive vice-president and sales director. Opened late in 1961, the Colonies, a residential-recreational complex of 25 two-bedroom, two-bath luxury own-your-own apartments, is approaching the sell-out stage.

Only 6 units remain to be sold. When these sales are completed, reported Bixler, total sales volume on the Colonies will reach the $1,000,000 mark.

Ideally located bordering the first fairway and within walking distance of the golf club's striking Top o' the Dune clubhouse, Bermuda Colonies has sparked the dramatic progress that has hit the picturesque golf course community. Built by Ernest W. Hahn and designed by Wexler and Harrison, the Colonies have served to illustrate the astounding growth pattern of Bermuda Dunes, which promises steady expansion and a rising prosperity.

According to Bixler, Bermuda Dunes' Unit No. 7 is 90 per cent sold out, necessitating the opening of a new sub-division encompassing 300 lots surround the 10th, 11th and 12th fairways and greens of Bermuda Dunes' 18-hole championship golf course.

Singer Ginny Plans Development at Lake

Ginny Simms, who recently cut her 500th recording, has plans to build that many homes in a new resort community she and Don Eastvold are creating in Northern Minnesota this summer.

Named the Ginny Simms Lakes Estates, the $1,000,000 project marks Miss Simms' debut as a full-fledged community developer. The community is rising on acreage that bisects two of Minnesota's most prized recreational lakes, Shamaneaux and Crookneck, 120 miles north of Minneapolis and St. Paul and halfway between Little Falls and Brainerd.

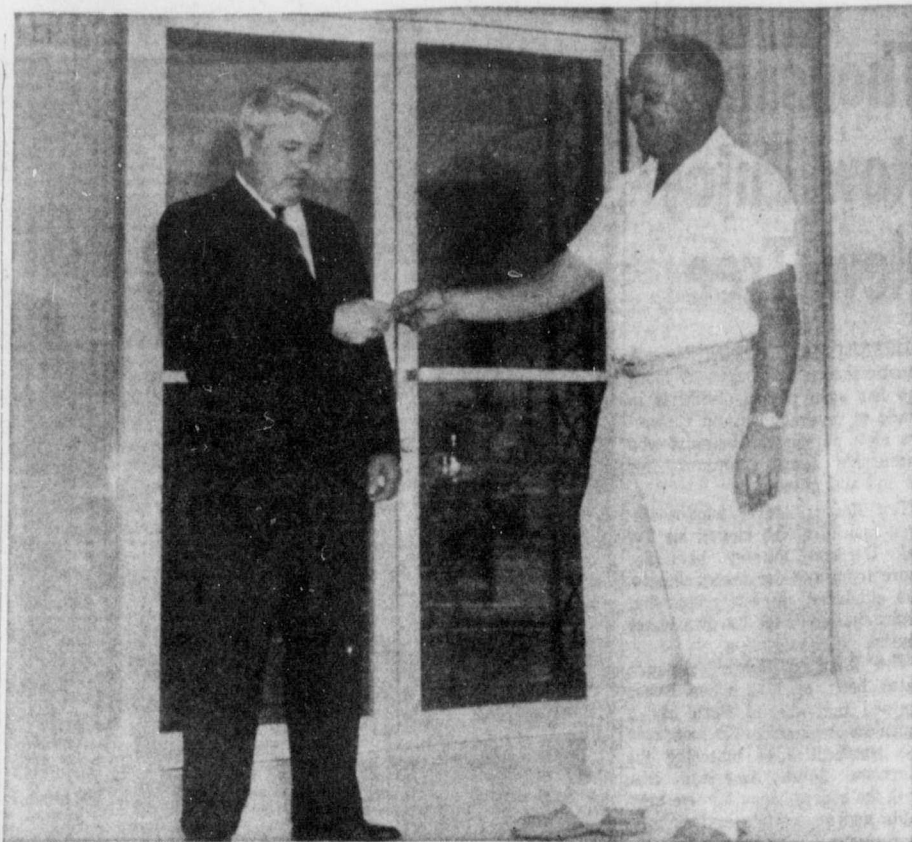

Eastvold, who served four years as attorney general of the State of Washington, is a native of Jackson, Minn., attended St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. and received a law degree at the University of Minnesota. Renowned as a waterfront land developer, Eastvold is co-owner with Oilman Ray Ryan of the multi-million-dollar North Shore Beach on the Salton Sea near Palm Springs, Calif.

Miss Simms and Eastvold are currently constructing six homes fronting the twin lakes. Expected to be completed by June 25, they will serve as furnished models for the community's homebuilding activity.

Homesite purchasers will qualify for membership in the Ginny Simms Lake Estate Community Club and will be entitled to use a host of facilities offered by the club. These include an Olympic size swimming pool, clubhouse for game activity and special parties, stables and bridle paths for horseback riding, three private beaches for swimming, docks and slips for boating, picnic grounds and a baseball diamond and tennis courts.

The rugged, unspoiled land adjoining Lakes Shamaneaux and Crookneck offers unusual opportunities for a pleasant blending of modern resort development and a secluded wilderness hideaway. Much of the land is true north woods, noted for its towering pines and wealth of scenic beauty. Roads are paved, but every effort is being made by Miss Simms and Eastvold to keep the wild look on the land.

The nation's most consistently productive fishing can be found in this area. It's particularly favored for walleyed perch and pike, bass, crappies and sun fish. Rare indeed are the days when the fish aren't in a biting mood. Even small fry anglers find it no trick to hook piscatorial bonanzas.

DONALD M. BINKERD receives the keys to his new building which houses the Palm Springs Mortuary from Michael E. Ryan, local building contractor. The new Palm Springs Mortuary, at 4707 Sunny Dunes Road, opened for business under the ownership and management of Binkerd, a resident of Palm Springs for the past nine years and a graduate of California College of Mortuary Science. Binkerd lives with his wife, Elaine, and three sons, Jerry, 12; Michael, 7; and James, 5, in a new home at the rear of the new mortuary building.

Mrs. Bunzel in National Tour

By ELLEN SAUNDERS

DESERT HOT SPRINGS—Seattle is the first port of call for Mrs. and Mrs. August Bunzel, who have left for a summer-long tour of the United States. Plans call for a visit to New York City with stopovers in Wisconsin and Michigan before they return in October.

Another locale enjoying the World's Fair in Seattle is Kelly Shugart, who motored up with his wife for a week's stay.

Miss Gilda Masi of Milwaukee, Wis., is spending an extended vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Masi. Miss Masi, a ceramist, was formerly designer and sales manager for Gilda's Ceramics.

Weekend guests at the A. L. Eaton home were Miss Hazel Hopkins—she's an executive with Meals For Millions—and Mrs. Virginia Anderson of Los Angeles.

The A. O. Galvins and Mrs. Rose Klein planed in from a two and one-half month visit with relatives in Atlanta, Memphis, New York City and Chicago. They will spend the remainder of the summer here.

Bruce Tarbuton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Tarbuton, celebrated his 18th birthday by graduating from Palm Springs High School.

Bruce plans to enter The College of the Desert in the fall. His sister, Linda Lee, graduated from Nellie Coffman Junior High with a straight A average for the past year.

Librarian Kathryn Brison and husband, Lloyd, have again leased a cabin in Little Creek Canyon in the San Gabriel Mountains for the summer months. They will vacation there a few days at a time throughout the summer. Mrs. Grace Tarbuton will be in charge of the library during Mrs. Brison's absence.

The latest honor to be awarded Michael Thorpe, a senior at the University of Southern California, was election as captain of the University's debate squad. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorpe.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Openshaw and daughter, Elena, spent several days here as the guests of Ed and Nancy Martin. Martin and Openshaw were fellow employees for the American-Arabian Oil Co. for several years.

Fifty guests gathered at the Smile Inn Hotel on Saturday night as Jack and Rose Smilen hosted a birthday party for Curt Weinzwieg of Los Angeles. Mrs. Jennie Frank and Mrs. Sadie Klein of Desert Hot Springs. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weinzwieg, Herman Tarschis and the William Underbergers.

The Ed Devolets—they own the Kismet Lodge—are on a two-week holiday to Seattle, Portland and Victoria, B. C. During the Devolets' absence their son and daughter-in-law, the Frank Appletons of Pomona, will manage the lodge.

Mrs. Norma Shaw and Mrs. William Slattery attended installation ceremonies of the Knights of Columbus held at Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Diego. Mrs. Shaw's son, Don of Pacific Palisades, was among the 200 Knights who were elevated to the Fourth Degree.

Mrs. Morris Altman of Desert Hot Springs and Mrs. Ethel Farrar of Palm Springs celebrated their birthdays with luncheon at the Canyon Country Club. On hand to toast the celebrants were Mrs. Jennie Frank and Mrs. Mabel Gorden.

Books on Families Popular

By GERRY VANEK

Here we are betwixt and between Mother's Day and Father's Day — officially, that is. Actually, books about families are popular every day in the year!

MOMMIES: Lonnie C. CARTON
Sometimes Mommies are as sweet as sugar:

"Mommies smile and hug and squeeze
And run for hankies when you sneeze."

And sometimes they add a bit of spice:

"Mommies sing songs so soft and sweet
But shout if you play near the street!"

But, most of all, they're everything nice:

"And here's a little secret, too, Mommies are busiest LOVING YOU!"

A DAY WITH DADDY: ALVIN TRESSELT

Her doll, Rosemary, and her cocker spaniel, George, help Betsy wait for Daddy on the days he goes to work. But Sundays are different!

Betsy and her Daddy surprise Mother with pancakes for breakfast. Betsy likes eating pancakes even more than beating their batter! George, by the way, is a very careful cocker — he never eats Betsy's fingers when she feeds him!

Later Betsy helps her Dad cut the grass; she's very careful to cut all the places he misses. Then they walk to town, and play games when they come home. And bedtime for Betsy means book time!

GRANDMOTHER AND I: HELEN BUCKLEY

Grandmother and I start right in rocking in the rocking chair that Grandfather and I left so suddenly! Grandmother's lap is just right for sitting and thinking about things. Of course, other people have laps, too.

But Grandmother's lap is just right when measles come out all over . . . or when lightning is coming in the window . . . or when the cat's been gone for two days . . .

Grandmother hums little tunes, and her shoes make a soft, shushing sound on the floor.

MY FAMILY: MIRIAM SCHLEIN
Relatives! Who are these people? What are they to me?

For instance, what makes Uncle Harry my uncle? He could have been Oswald, Jack or Paul — a mountain climber, horse trainer, or underwater diver — but if he's my mother's brother, he's my uncle!

And so on down the family tree! When you're young, figuring out who's who in your family can be as confusing as "Brothers and sisters, I have none, but that man's father is my father's son. Who's he to me?"

But — by the time you finish these books — all of your relatives more amusing!

Now you'll know who's who!

MUST BE BLACK MARKET

Presley Claims to Be Wife Hunting

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Elvis Presley is 27 years old. Elvis Presley is rich. Elvis Presley is famous. But most of all Elvis Presley is single!

And if the calf-eyed, wriggly-hipped singer has his way he will, in all likelihood, remain untached.

It isn't an easy goal.

Females flock around Presley as if he were a fire sale on three-way stretch girdles in the Bon-Ton basement. Old girls, young girls, fat girls, thin girls, sane girls and added girls surround him at every turn.

Black Market?

If there is safety in numbers

Elvis may remain single for life.

"I want to get married and have children and all that," Elvis said without too much enthusiasm. "I'm still looking. I'm still shopping around for a girl I'd like to marry."

Presley must be shopping on the black market. He is rarely seen in public with the local cuties.

"I guess I'm pretty sly and sneaky when it comes to avoiding gossip columns," he grinned.

"People are entitled to know some of what's going on with movie folk, but I like to keep some things private."

"Anyway, most of the girls I date are out of the public eye."

Presley, whose manners and appearance are as impeccable as they were when he arrived here from Tennessee, excused himself to rehearse a scene for his new Paramount picture, "Girls! Girls!

Girls!" The shot called for him to be surrounded by 30 gyrating, thinly clad female dancers.

Somewhat winded from his twist excursion and by the proximity of so much bare feminine flesh, Elvis dropped into his canvas chair.

A Near Thing

He looked at the gals with an appraising eye, almost as a con-noisseur, and shook his head thoughtfully. "I almost got married once," he said.

"I was 18 years old and fresh outta high school driving a truck for a living. My girl friend still had one more year of school to finish.

"Then I starting singing and was away from town so much she got tired of waiting for me. Now she's married and has a couple of kids."

In a relieved voice Elvis added, "I'm not sure whether I've met the right girl or not. But it's not because I haven't been meeting a lot of nice ones."
